

Music and Manners in the Classical Period: Essays (Classic Reprint)

But the two most interesting items of the catalogue are yet unmentioned. One is the laborious collection of Manuscript Music that Gray compiled in Italy while frivolous Horace Walpole was eating iced fruits in a domino to the sound of a guitar. Zamperelli, Pergolesi, Arrigoni, Galuppi he had ransacked them all noting the school of the composer and the source of the piece selected copying out religiously even the Regole per l'Accompagnamento. It is thus that Austin Dobson alludes, in one of his Eighteenth Century Vignettes, to a portion of the library of the author of the Elegy written in a Country Churchyard. He is writing with a catalogue of a sale of the poet's library, which took place in 1851, as his guide. The second of the two most interesting items was an interleaved copy of the Systema Naturae, by Linnaeus, which Mr. (Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and do not occur in the book.)
