

REVERSE: Nourish body and mind with healthy food and thoughts

Thoughts, observations, and personal experiences of Sargis Poghosyan on his way to a healthy body and happiness. Sargis Poghosyan encountered various illnesses over the course of his life which traditional medicine considered incurable. He was forced to look for alternative methods of treatment including yoga, religion and alternative medicine. In this short work, Sargis shares with his reader the tremendous amount of knowledge he has been able to amass on his journey to a healthy and happy body, mind and soul. Sargis is a National Master of Folk Art in Armenia. His art works are on permanent exhibition in museums in various countries. He worked for years as a broadcaster for the National Armenian Television and Radio Network in Yerevan the famous Radio Yerevan. His works are listed in the Armenian Complete Encyclopaedia. He has been involved with the reconstruction of ancient churches throughout Armenia, and has created and carved the lost wooden doors of churches such as Karmavor (VII century) in Ashtarak, St. Gevorg Monastery (XIV century) in Mughni and St. Jakob (XVIII century) in Yerevan.
