

Yaquina Bay State Park Lighthouse (Global State And National Parks)

central coast area of Oregon, America. The light is a third order Fresnel lens made in France in the late 1800s. The lighthouse beacon room was built by a native San Franciscan named Bien. The light shines 15 miles out to sea, and is the only lighthouse housing families and the light beacon. It remained active for the first three years, then was disabled because it confounded sailors and other mariners who were thrown off by a second lighthouse at Yaquina Head three miles north. Enjoy a fine art photography galleria by Laurel and enjoy Oregon in a whole new light.
