Not illustrated. 1896 Excerpt: ...Australian languages: The native languages spoken in the several parts of Australia. (Latham says that these all show an agglutinate structure.) AOCLUTINATE. 2. As substantive: A native of Australia. Two great races inhabit the islands lying to the south-east of Asia, and scattered in small groups at intervals over the warmer parts of the Pacific. The higher of these is the Malay race; the lower is culled, from its resemblance to the African negroes, Negrito. The native Australians are Negritos. They are so low in organisation that it is said they can count only 3, 4, and 5; though some who have taught them have given a much more favourable opinion of their capacity. australizo, r.f.
