Excerpt: ... The present case is a proof of this observation, as well as a remarkable instance that the Bath waters are extremely efficacious in such kinds of palsy; of which we have further proofs, in cafe the first and second, among the Dead Palsies, and also in cafe the second, of Palsies of the Lower Limbs. But it will be here proper to observe, that Shaking Palsies, unless they are the consequence of an imperfect crisis of some acute disease, or of suppressed gout, seldom receive any considerable benefit from these waters. A general Palsy, from a Suppression of the Menses. TFLIZABETH JORDAN, of the parish of Balden in Oxford/hire, aged 19, had her menses suddenly suppressed, during the second time of their appearance, by catching cold in rainy weather; and was struck with a general palsy. The catamenia were restored to their regular periods, some months after, by emmenagogues and bathing in common warm water. By the repeated use of the latter, she recovered in some degree the action of her arms and hands, but found no alteration in her lower limbs, except that, while they were immersed in warm water, their sensibility and motion returned, which were presently lost again upon their being taken out. She staid in the hospital 251 days, and by drinking the waters in small quantities, and by bathing in them as often as her strength would permit, was discharged entirely cured. This patients cafe shews not only the good effects of bathing in common warm water, but at the same time the superior power of our baths in palsies; as the cure received by the former was only partial and temporary, but that from the latter compleat and permanent. A general Palsy, from Cold. gAMUEL BLISS, a common
