

True salt, serviceable, unsentimental sea: Clarkson Stanfield, British maritime art, and the painting of St Michaels Mount, Cornwall (1830)

About the book: Clarkson Stanfield RA (1793-1867) is regarded as one of Britain's greatest maritime artists yet today his legacy is often dwarfed by JMW Turner. This short book looks at one of Stanfield's most famous paintings of St Michaels Mount in Cornwall and how through the recognition of King William IV his career transformed eventually into a Royal Academician. This book looks at the role of early key maritime artists that influenced Stanfield such as the Van de Veldes as well as the influence of the sublime that many artists such as John Martin adhered to. Stanfield is one of Britain's master painters of the sea and this book helps to show the role St Michaels Mount played in his career. About the author: Luke studied at the University of Bristol and there gained a degree and masters in Geography. Whilst doing the masters he became increasingly interested in studying art from a geographical lens. He has specific interests in Clarkson Stanfield being a direct ancestor of his and lives in Cornwall.
