

Plutos 2012 Retrograde and the First Square to Uranus in Aries

This document covers the symbolism of Pluto, its transits and retrogrades in general, its retrograde period this year in the sign of Capricorn (April 10th September 18th), and the square it will make to transiting Uranus in Aries on June 24th, the first of several important squares that will take place between 2012 and 2015. I taught two teleclasses in April 2012 to work with students charts to bring these ideas to life and the transcription of the opening of one of those classes follows the text. That transcription covers: -Pluto in Capricorn and whos running your life. -The Occupy movement and decoupling self-confidence and strength from money. Drawing energy back to take back power. -Energy is our power. Money is a reflection of energy. How to understand money as such without tying our strength and self-confidence to how much money we have. New-Age abundance teachings can misunderstand the link between success and money by linking it to it. How to unwind these thoughts. -After Pluto crumbles the thing, how long before new shoots come up? Patience and faith in the wake of the destruction. Tips to work through sitting in the rubble to learn the lesson youve been asked to learn. How to move forward after Plutonian loss and destruction including when money and possessions are involved. -The square to Uranus in Aries in June and how to understand things coming to the surface. Something has to change. Consciously approaching something coming to a head with the square. Dealing energetically/emotionally with the tension that will come up.
